We all know that all of us need a protection, right? Because when we are being protected our lives will be safe. Human protection is very important to us. What are the things that need protection in our daily lives?

Basic needs should be provided like shelter, cloth, and food as well. We need shelter for us to live in the house where we can sleep and stay. We need cloth because it protects our body. Forest also protects us from the calamities like floods, and landslides. This forest can help us because it absorbs the water. Also we need the food because if there's no food you will die.

That is why we should appreciate the things that help us in our protection. We should stop the illegal logging, some people would just easily cut down trees without thinking what will be the consequences in the later part. We should love the environment for us to live harmoniously in this world.
