Human Rights, is one of the government branches that helps and guides individual persons about judicial processes, specifically right of a person, regardless of his status in the community neither ordinary nor the most powerful, the criminals, and the professionals in the community.

Nowadays, there are so many persons or people who are violating human rights, specially those men in uniforms like the police officers, militaries and the government officials. Most commonly the police of doing their duties and responsibilities, they 're busy doing other works like asking money to all the street vendors they are making money out of them .As of what I observed and saw, then what's the importance of human rights if there are so many violations? Nothing.

As we can see, there are so many poor people and if they will be arrested because of a crime that they never did, they will just be accused and sentenced to jail, they have also the right to have a lawyer but because they are poor they cannot afford to have a lawyer. There are so many people inside the person who did not commit criminal act.

Every individual has the right to live and to have their own privacy, and because there are so many paparazzi everywhere, they didn't even have privacy, specially the popular people, like the actions, actresses and the president. Stalking is not required it is a crime, because it alarms, annoys or harasses the person, this could be a ground for imprisonment, specially those who threatened the lives of others.

Child abuse, a broad term used to include neglect as well as physical and sexual abuse. It includes. It includes stealing or parental kidnapping. Some people used the children to get some money, because they know that they will not be sentenced to jail. Sexual abuse includes sexual activities that are voluntary in the sense that no force is used. Some parents are engaging their children to do sexual activities to have money. Robbery was the only crime in which women are always their don't know that robbery is a serious offense.

Everywhere you can see prostitutes women who engage in this kind of work has poor relationship with their mothers and do not feel that they can turn to them when their fathers initiate sexual activities, and also many men who have sexual relations with daughters are having problems, often sexual with their wives and they see their wives as threatening and rejecting. This is all examples of child abuse. Every individual has the right to go school, but why is it that there are so many children working instead of going to school.
