

HUMAN RIGHTS IN EDUCATION

Maricar Magura

College of Business Management
Universidad de Zamboanga
Zamboanga City, Philippines

Everyone has a right to have an education to educate them to enhance their knowledge and their skills. But some reason, some of the people haven't gone to school because of lack of money or financial problem.

At this time, many employers or agency look for the people or applicant that a college degree holder because they think that they can give an aspect or knowledge to their company to be more productive. But if you are not a college graduate they don't hire you to a higher position, because they think that they cannot help their company to increase their profit, that's why they just, offered to you a lower position.

We should be fair in treating persons, even though you are not a college graduate, equal treatment even though you are rich or poor, we should respect each other, the rights of the people.