

HUMAN RIGHTS ON EDUCATION

JOZANNA M. ONDONA

Universidad de Zamboanga
Zamboanga City, Philippines

Human rights work is promoting the dignity of all people. The actions of human rights activities must revolve around. However in many case, victims of rights abuses are denied the dignity by those people who claim to defend the rights of the victims of a specific violation, they are seen as victims in general, with all the negative connotations that are associated with the term “victim”.

We all know that human rights implemented by the officials of a country. Human rights, makes people to fight for their dignity. Like in this situation, a student and a teacher. When a teacher caught a student cheating, sometimes they can't control their emotion and becomes anger. And that's the time they will physically and mentally hurt the student. In that case, the teacher were already making the verbal and physical abuse. The student has the right to file a case to a teacher.

There is also a situation between parents and their children. We all know that it is the parent's obligation to sent their children to school. But sad to say, now a day not all parents can support the studies of their children. But then there is a saying that emphasize that “poverty is not a hindrance to success”. But in our place, there are parents instead of sending their children to school, they keep on gambling. And sometimes, even though they can finance to sent their children in school they are lazy to do that. So, their children can also file a case to their parent.