Every being in our society has human rights. Human rights are the right of people living on the face of the earth. And these rights according to the law must be respected.

Each of us has the freedom to choose. Each of us has the right to live, eat, go to school, and do whatever they please. Everyone has the right to be respected and to be treated well.

Let us respect the rights of each individual for what goes around comes around.

“Do not do unto others what you do not want others do unto you.” (Confucius)
