World peace is not possible to achieve only if we people learn to appreciate the things we have and given by God, But we humans have different views and characteristic in life. For example the war between the South and North Korea, Iraq and the U.S.A , Afghanistan and Israel, This war has been going on for ages now. The reason why this countries is at war is for Wealth and Power. It really goes to show that people are not satisfied of what they have. Many religions and religious leaders have expressed a desire for an end to violence and/or world peace but that is just impossible because we humans are not like robots who can be controlled by this religious leaders. Many philosophers too believe that the world cannot be rid of evil, instead there must be an equal balance between good and evil.

We share the same planet but we all live in different worlds. Different culture, religion or beliefs but that doesn't stop world peace from being inevitable because I believe that everyone was born with a good heart, we only need to believe and trust that there is a one God who can do things that we humans can't do and help spread the word of God. Media's not doing a Good job in the subject of World Peace because most of the news I've seen in the television or should I say 50% of the news is more on people committing violence and I think its giving people a bad image of what the world is now.
