It would be hard or impossible to achieve world peace since there are a lot of views towards what is right and wrong. A religious view is a major factor that will influence our perception on what is right and wrong. Even thou we have one religion and the same views on right and wrong it would still be hard to get total world peace since we could not even have peace within ourselves. Societies cannot be peaceful to each other unless we look at them with a constant peace of mind. We could never love everyone that we can diminish our emotions of anger.

But still even thou it's hard to achieve true peace atleast we can make it last longer just by communicating God and seek for answers. We are living in a world of doubt and trying to make an impact on the world. Where we take our own responsibility, we can try to understand each other's point of views. Pride is dangerous for it ruins our relationship with people. Everyone wants to be the top and stay at the top that they will do anything to be there and stay there. Even if their actions can make society worst.

What children see is want they do just like monkey see monkey do. It doesn't matter if the old will do bad actions because they will die eventually. But it is what children see and conclude that they are right, their bad influence can be pass on. When adults smoke, children will think that it is good so they try it and will like it. If adults yell at them again and again they will use it at other kids. If we can't change our selves we could never achieve world peace. Even in our community there are always those people that ruins our day what more if we are talking in a global scale. If will be impractical to protest on peace. Even the protesters are chaotic, they create more chaos not fully understanding why is the government doing this and that. I think if there will be world peace someday I owe it all to the one this that we all have LOVE for it is the only thing that has the power to unite us all.
