In a nuclear age where terrorism exists. The millennium in an age where the knowledge of weapons of mass destruction is but a click away. Each of us is threatened when peace is not secured everywhere. We have witnessed some trembling sound of wars in different parts of the world; the unforgettable September 11 attack that still remains a mystery, the ongoing war between North and South Korea, the US-Russian rivalry in the Caucasus are just some of the misleading events through peace and development.

With these problems so complex and entwined, what can be done? The solution depends on us, and it starts with you. Do not let these events stop us from dreaming for a better future and a peaceful life. Besides, peace is not the absence of conflict, but the ability to cope with it. It cannot be kept by force, it can only be achieved by understanding. Let the power of our love overcome the love of power, then the world will know peace.
