“World peace” simple words and easy to say, but do we really know exactly if what is it? How many among of us have this?

World peace for me is some what everyone or country that has wanted to have it is about freedom, giving, sharing, loving, appreciating of what others have, giving value to everyone by way of respecting.

But, as we can see our world today most of us doesn't know world peace. Many of us doesn't have these. In fact, almost the whole world, each country is now facing the war, a war made by its people. Many civilians our being killed with this stupid w a r. A war just for nothing.

Right now we can see that most of us are having no freedom. A freedom to speak, and a freedom to live the way we wanted to be...

But I know that all of us are still waiting, praying and asking to him, that someday there will be world peace. And of course for us to achieve this, let's make a change. And change should start with ourselve's...

By this way, I can say that there is world peace...
