For me human rights is the rights and freedoms to which all humans are entitled, the rights of each individual or person to do what they want to do, having a freedom to live in their own. Human rights is important in our lives because through this all of us has the right to have justice and freedom, the role of this human rights is to give justice just for example a rape victim she has the right to complain to the court and give her justice of what happen to her through this every person will be satisfied of their lives of having a justice (rights).

In this human rights we can prevent crimes, bad news and etc. because if there's a right and freedom there will be justice to everyone and if we apply this in a good way or purpose we can have ha peaceful life and if there will be peace in our society or even in our country it will result a good development in our own country that's why human rights is important to us.

“Human rights are moral power residing in a person in virtue where of refers to himself as well as his action. Human rights are our freedom to be and to do things legally and we have our laws which promote human rights. For instance, women and children's rights of the indigenous, our risk to be educated, to work, to have our basic needs and others. On the other hand, natural rights are rights to be live, love, and be loved. In spite of these rights empowered to us. Still many can't attain these. There are still some many cases of violating human rights. As such as child abuse, criminal injustices and other social issues related to human rights. One example of social issue in relation to human rights is the Abortion. Abortion is an act of termination of pregnancy or intended miscarriage. We all know that thing is not just against the law but is highly a big mistake in the eye of god. In our modern society now, abortion is one of the big issues that buzz; many pregnant mothers have nothing to do but to abort their child. But this is one way of killing their own baby. They believe they are not able to raise their child because of some social, mental and financial problems and some family problems, that what I understand about human rights.”

It is the idea that people should have rights, because they are human beings. These rights are seen as universal, which means they are meant for everyone, no matter what their race, religion, ethnicity, nationality, gender, beliefs and etc.

Human rights help to protect all people everywhere from severe political, legal and social abuses. And the other meaning of human rights are the do's and don'ts of the humans or their freedom, the condition of being free to do something, the power to act or to speak or think without externally imposed restraints.

The use of human rights is to prevent people from abuse. Or intentionally harm a person or people whether it is physically, emotionally or verbally once or many times. One example of human right, the very common, are the right to live or exist, to be a citizen of a country and to believe and practice the religion a person wants.

There are a lot of human rights that we need to stand on it, because we chose that right, the one that I had mention is just one of the human rights that people really need. For me human rights only exist for our own good. But the most important is to follow the responsibilities given to us by god. To do what's good and to avoid what's bad.
