What comes first into your mind when you hear the word peace? And what its use when you apply it to your daily life? Do you believe that if you use or even act this five-letter word can affect your life?

For me, yes, because peace is a condition or time without war. It is a state of harmony and cooperation between people or nations and it is also a condition of quiet or stillness.

Peace is a word that is easy to say but hard to do. In our generation today, almost all the people here in the entire world are already well-educated, well-disciplined, very professional and can really think great ideas. Like scientists, they can invent modern machines or technologies for the use of transportation, to cure diseases and even for communications. These things that they invented can really help other people. Next are the different presidents in the different countries. They are the one who made and approved different laws, govern their own country and etc.

These are the people who can give too much contribution to our society. They are respected by others and even loved by others because of their intelligence wherein they can make solutions to the problems. But the question is why is it that until today, they can't still think and make solutions for peace? Why is it that until now there are war, illegal killings and global crisis?

Maybe, now is the time to know that peace must start with us. We are the one who must promote it and influence others. The solution is in our hearts because ordinary people like us can even solve this kind of predicament. So let us start doing PEACE now.
