A Turn for a Better World

In this new world of chaos, the inevitable drastic change is in a mushroom. From the compulsion that we bring to ourselves to attain power, to the greed we invoke ourselves with, this world has indeed become a new world, no longer can be recognized.

The widespread corruption that lies within the society today has indeed gone on with the rotation of the earth on its axis. As it completes its rotation, a greed for power is accomplished. This is the reality that all of us should be aware of. Haven't we humans gone further? Haven't we become monsters voracious enough in acquiring the pride we have no right of possessing? Yes. We have no right to possess any pride because our neighbors in other nations are being deprived and stepped on due to this word each nation boasts of –pride. Have you heard of our brothers and sisters in Palestine being discriminated and deprived of their rights to live? Or even the poor people of a nation, being dragged to their tombs slowly but surely by means of neglecting the responsibility of those who can, towards those who can't?

Many of us today, fail to realize the value of having each other as part of the living society more than capable enough of thinking. Wars taking place here and there has been a threat into the noble eyes of the children; the unending competition for which race is best or which is more respectful has been a downfall of the hopes for the lesser ones to have a brighter future; the continuous greed for power, fame and glory, has indeed made us all unworthy of the trust we all can gain from each other.

Jeopardy is everywhere yet why do these things happen? It is because of our own choices. We are the ones choosing for the consequences taking place within our lives. And we have to put an end in choosing the wrong option to attain the better future we all want to achieve. If we all work hand in hand, we can always attain the goals we want to uphold which may actually turn our world to a better place.
