Mother Nature Yesterday and Today

One of the most alarming issues of today concerns our natural environment. It is being destroyed by selfish monsters that are more known as human beings. Earth before was a paradise and now, it is slowly turning into a hell.

Looking back to the past, you can see a lot of colorful flowers with sweet fragrances that makes you fall in love with nature. Now, you can see a lot of artificial flowers with no fragrance at all. Before, you can see tall green trees as you strode outside your house, providing you with cool shade and delicious fruits. Now, you can see tall concrete buildings. Back then, you can enjoy swimming in the clear blue waters of our mother nature abundant with living creatures in its depth. Now, you can see garbages swimming and dead fish floating in the once crystal clear water. And in the past, you used to enjoy thee feeling of the fresh air caressing you, keeping you cool and helping you relax. Now, you inhale dirty smoke that poisons you.

All these are happening because of us. We are selfish and just wanted to become wealthy even if this means destroying nature. Yesterday, Mother Nature is taking care of us. Now, she is hunting us.
