Mother Earth is a our only abode, where we live and will continue to live by the fortification of our ozone layer against the destructive ultraviolet rays of the sun, yet we never value the gift given to us by Almighty God and we continue to destroy the one who protects us from danger of death cause by excessive heat. We seldom consider the life of the next generation, we abuse Mother Nature and sometimes we create unnecessary things just to please and achieve our wants. We always realize the consequence of what we've done after the damage could be seen.

Indeed, prevention is better than cure. So, why should we wait before the time we experience the consequences? We should think of possibilities, the consequences and the reward of it, and the responsibility that accompanies a decision before making an action. And we should lessen or stop if possible the activities that worsen the problem to avoid chaos and destruction.

We should bear in mind that every living thing needs to be loved and taken care of. Just like we, human beings, we always aspire to be loved. Don't you think that Mother Earth also want to be taken care of? Taking care of Mother Earth in our own little way and in the best way possible is our great responsibility, the inhabitants of this world, to repay her for protecting us for millions of years.
