As I hear the word “human right” it easily comes out in my mind the word freedom but as I think deeply there are many questions that comes out in my mind like do all people experience this? How human right is important to every one of us? And when our right or freedom begins?

As our life begins in this world, our right also begins. We have right to live, right to have name, right to have shelter and right to love and to be love. It is appearing that aside from shelter, clothing and food, human right is one of our basic needs. We need it like those with other. As we grow older, our rights also getting wider so we must have a proper education for us to be familiar to all of our rights. To learn our rights is very important. We need it to protect our self and not to be step easily by other people.
