Despite knowing our rights some are still deprived, disrespected and ignored as a human being entitled of rights as citizen of this country. Somehow we are ourselves deny our rights and don't care about it...I guess in having the human rights we must know are rights and of course our limitation as individual, obey what is ought. Should act towards our and to others in a spirit of brotherhood and not driven by greed and selfishness.

As imperfect being, we should also tolerate others at some degree that we want others to understand our limitations and failures. NO one is perfect therefore everybody deserves chance and allowable space for imperfection.
