

Peace and Development

Nasra A. Sehaban

School of Allied Medicine

Universidad de Zamboanga

Zamboanga City, Philippines

Peace is very important in our country. And if we have peace of course there is development. Changes take place if we have development. We'll going to improve in many ways and catch up with other countries or people around us. If we are in peace we can have a lot of friends and get development from them. They could share to us some new ideas which can broaden our minds. They can share to us something and give us some ideas on how to improve ourselves. In our country, if we have peace. And everybody is accepting one's opinion or idea. Then development comes after because we keep on sharing ideas and learning things from them. Accepting and giving can leads also to peace and development. Everyone also has to share so that we will be going to gain development.