Man is born with rights. The human rights having right are an attribute of a person. We have a moral power bound to the respected others individual shared have its own natural life which every person experienced. We can do everything because of our human rights but we should remember limits are boundary beyond which a right may not be insisted without violating the rights of others.

We have the democracy it is part of human rights we can voice out our opinion towards everything we have the right to do whatever we want for ourselves whether it is human rights or natural rights. We have also the freedom religious right we can choose what religion we worship and believe, it is our right to treat equal nor shall any person be denied the equal protection of laws. All of this is the right to exist as a sovereign people.
