World Peace is an ideal of freedom and happiness among and within all nations, although the term is sometimes used to refer to cessation of all hostility all individuals. World peace more commonly refers to a permanent and to global and regional wars future conflicts resolved through non-violent.

Having a world peace we should know how to envy between people, if you talked about envy, it is killer things that people have in their minds to destroys other personal life. the world peace is that a peace and harmony within each other, to attain this we must know how to apply this well to ourselves for our daily life, we must know how to be friendly and respect to each other, we must also know how to love our siblings and neighborhood, we must then humble ourselves. What makes mankind important is not our difference, but our similarities.
